

Cool Spaces: Quinn Thomas' Lake Oswego hybrid-driven office

The Quinn Thomas office brings the company's hybrid work style together by, as the firm puts it, providing comforting spaces for casual work conversation." Click through for more images from Quinn Thomas' new Lake Oswego offices, with commentary from those who work within this truly Cool Space.

By Andy Giegerich — Managing Editor, Portland Business Journal

Sep 12, 2022

Updated Sep 12, 2022, 9:41am PDT

The marketing firm Quinn Thomas says it's figured out a way to do hybrid offices right.

The firm's new office space in downtown Lake Oswego takes a former bank branch and creates a natural light-flooded environment with spots for Zoom calls and cooperative work alike.

The Gramor Development-owned space is part of the Lake View Village property.

All told, the Quinn Thomas space also offers an open floor plan, ergonomic sit/stand drop-in desks, a cool kitchen and a bar cart.

"While employees have the option to work remote or in-person, it was important to the Quinn Thomas leadership to have an inviting and collaborative space," said the firm's Rick Thomas.

The spot also features a healthy complement of local art.

See below for a tour of Quinn Thomas's new hybrid space in photos.

